Volume VI

The staff of Heritage has chosen as a theme "Why PHC?" In this volume of the school yearbook we will examine the way a Christian school fits into our community.

The book is divided into three main sections. The first shows how Port Huron Catholic is concerned with the development of Man in Relation to God. All subjects are related to this aspect of man, but in particular his study of his religion itself.

The second section concerns Man in Relation to his Fellow Man. Social studies, Modern language, social events, physical development seem to fit in here.

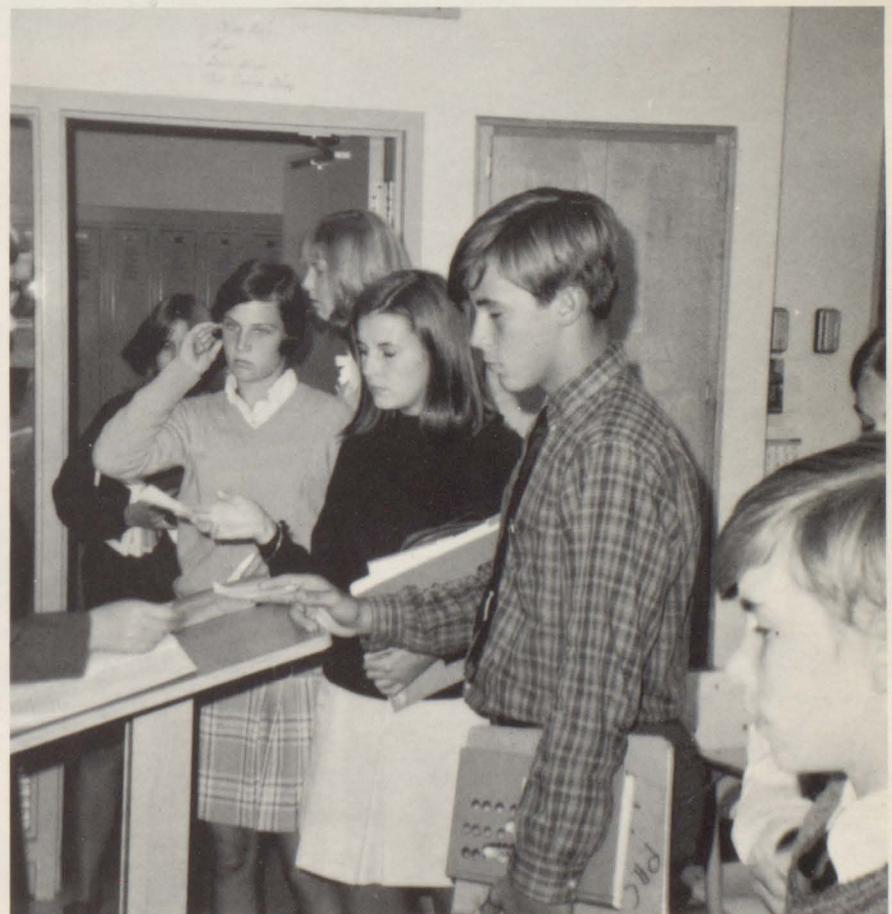

The last section concerns Man in Relation to Created Things. The sciences, business, industrial arts, fine arts, all seem to be part of this section.

These relationships intertwine and PHC hopes the result of these concerns will be a true Christian member of society.

Retreats Help Students Develop As Social Christians

The Religion Department sponsored a series of one day retreats at the Christian Commune House in St. Clair. This was an edifying experience for all participants. In addition, the Seniors made an overnight retreat at St. Basil's, Pontiac. These quiet times of reflection strengthen personal bonds.

Students play guitars during Thanksgiving Mass.

Fr. Burke helps out in the classroom and during Mass.

The Thanksgiving Mass is traditionally celebrated in appreciation of the staff members other than teachers.

of His Creator, His Fellow Man, His World

Religion classes have changed a lot since Vatican II. No longer interested in repeating lessons in history and doctrine that were absorbed in grade school, high school students want help in applying their Christian principles to their life today and tomorrow in the world. They use all media to express their creed, and learn to look for the significance in the world around them, and its influences.

Belief Expressed Through Art

Current Social Problems Group

As an adjunct to formal classes the religion department offered swing classes in Current Social Problems. Here the students explored the application of religious principles to problems occurring in their present lives, as well as in their future lives as members of a social group. One such class is pictured above and another below.

Foreign Languages definitely have a place in a Christian school. Communication with our own people is necessary but so is it with others, especially our neighbors.

As well as the language itself, study of French and Spanish adds to the cultural understanding of the peoples using these languages. It also implies an acceptance of those peoples, even an admiration for them.

Language study adds one more dimension to a Christian education.

French, Languages of Neighbors to North and South

Second year French students improve accent with tape recordings.

Freshmen learn the parts of the body in French.

Seniors present a play, The Christmas Tree, for their younger schoolmates. Translation, costuming, and direction were provided by the girls themselves.

Phys. Ed. Classes Play

Alumnae visiting P H C athletic fields or the gyms were in for a surprise this past season. During the fall the boys and girls exchanged fields. Mrs. Hall, girl's Phys Ed teacher, taught archery to the boys, and Mr. Al Armstrong, usually boys Phys Ed instructor, taught the girls touch football. During the winter season the girls invaded the boys gym for instruction in self defense and the boys tried the girls gymnastic equipment and used the parallel bars and trampoline.

Turn-About and Learn

John Hillman demonstrates his mastery of the parallel bars.

Mr. Armstrong and Tim O'Donnell demonstrate.

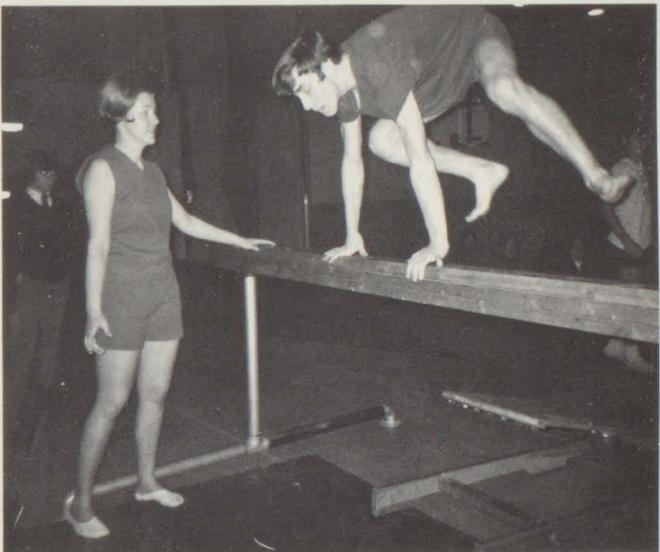

And the girls watch, hoping to learn how to throw a possible future assailant.

“FOCUS AMERICA” Reviewed American Song and Dance

The annual musical production of Port Huron Catholic in 1969 featured the development of song and dance in the United States of America.

Traditionally members of the different departments within the faculty unite to produce this popular affair, and the past year was no exception. The Fine Arts department naturally directed the whole affair, produced the music, the staging and lighting; the Physical Education department was responsible for the choreography, and other tasks were shared by the Social Studies, Modern Language, English, and Religion departments.

FOCUS AMERICA was the enjoyable result, and provided delightful entertainment as well as cooperative experience.

The Varsovienne, very formal, was danced by our ancestors during the Revolutionary era.

A Military Drill is always a treat to watch.

Introduction of horseless carriages inspired the Merry Oldsmobile.

The variety of American Heritage represented by a lively, multi-costumed folk dance.

Flappers of the late twenties danced the Charleston and Black Bottom.

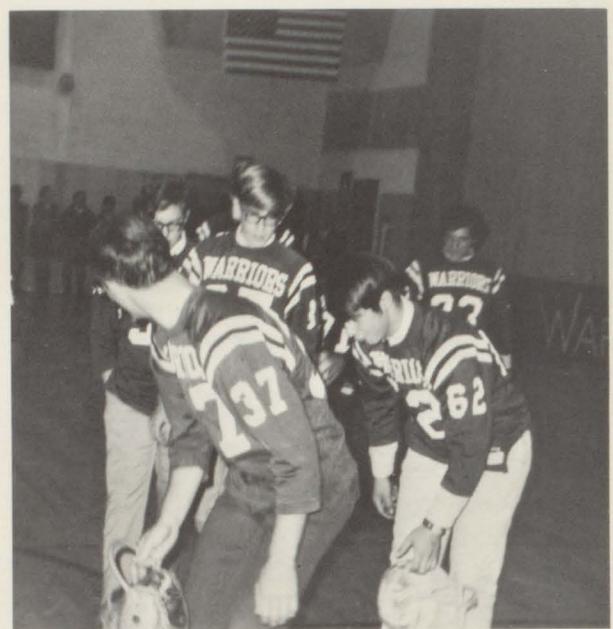

Right at home, the cast dances to loud and lively Pop music of their own time played by a live band.

The Highlight of

Probably no part of the school year creates such excitement as Homecoming. The contest for school Queen and her court, the class rivalry in the float contest, the dance plans and parade arrangements, as well as an exciting football game, add up to more activity per person than seem possible. While it lasts it is enjoyable but after the last dance all are glad to wait a year for the next time.

Results Were Spectacular

Between the end of the football season and the start of the basketball games comes a lull that seemed unbearable to the present Student Council. Their answer was Spirit Week! Five days featuring different contests, designed to meld the students into lively, friendly group.

Braids were worn one day, and even the boys managed to find enough hair for this. Another day featured costume-like dress, and for a school requiring uniforms, this was pure delight. Even the faculty got into the spirit and played a basketball game against the local disc jockeys.

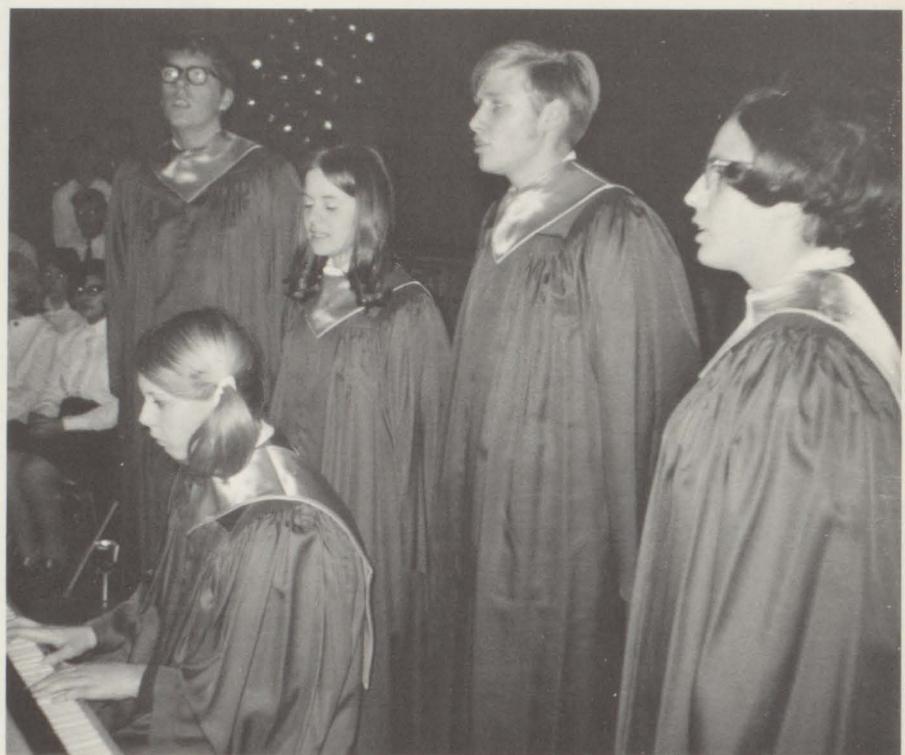

The climax was the assembly Friday afternoon. Mr. and Miss Irresistable were crowned, and the Hairy Legs prize awarded.

Yearbooks appear in June, but the preparations start in July. The editors prepare theme and style during the summer months so that they can get right to work in September. This group of really dedicated students want each book to be a complete record of a school year and the 1970 staff is no exception.

Photographers are familiar sights at all student events. Editors carefully cut pictures to be sure as many students as possible are represented. Layout personal plan and prepare pages for the publisher. The editor in chief and the faculty advisor supervise the final proof-reading which is done by a hard-working team who are especially talented for this work. Behind the editorial staff are the business people who plan and execute the ad campaign, take orders for book purchases, and distribute the books when they arrive. A good book is the product of a great deal of hard work by a great many students.

Latin Students Combine Study

All Latin scholars automatically become members of the Classical League and take part in its affairs. They send members to other campuses yearly, and compete for prizes in the area of projects with other Latin students of Michigan.

A big affair each year is the Annual Latin banquet held in our school cafeteria. Members wear ancient Roman costume and prepare a feast to rival Nero's. Younger students wait upon their elders and everyone enjoys the revelry. The day after the celebration the students wear their costumes to school. Prize projects are displayed at the banquet and viewed by the rest of the school the day after.

Although Latin is fast disappearing even in the Church, these scholars recognize it as an important part of our heritage, and as good scholastic discipline.

The general membership in the Junior Classical League includes all Latin students. Sr. Rita is the Moderator.

Art Classes Learn to Use Many Different Media

Tom Rankin works with chicken wire in room 108.

Mike Ward tries acrylics for the first time.

Making Studio Rosario a Come Alive Place

Chicken wire, plastic foam, coat hangers, as well as more conventional media are used by the students in Studio Rosario. Sr. James Martin is famous as a rescuer of discarded material and her pupils share her enthusiasm for creativity from the discards.

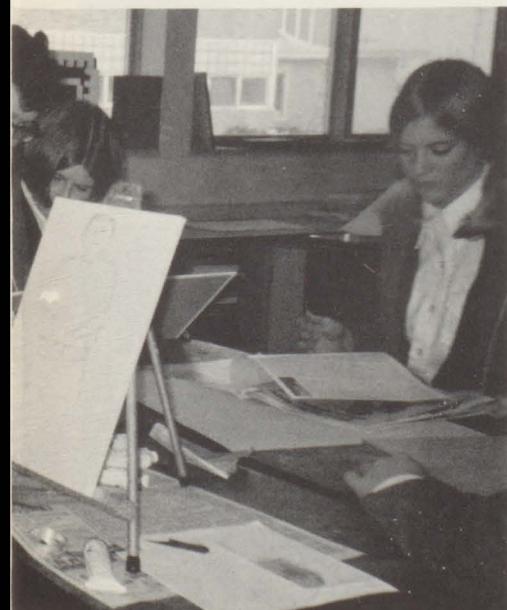

John Murphy tries his hand at painting.

Dennis Bringard gets ready to create art from clay.

Miss Wright, student observer, criticizes Bill Scheible's sketching.

Seeking the Mysteries of Nature

The Relationship between water and gravel is subject in Earth Science.

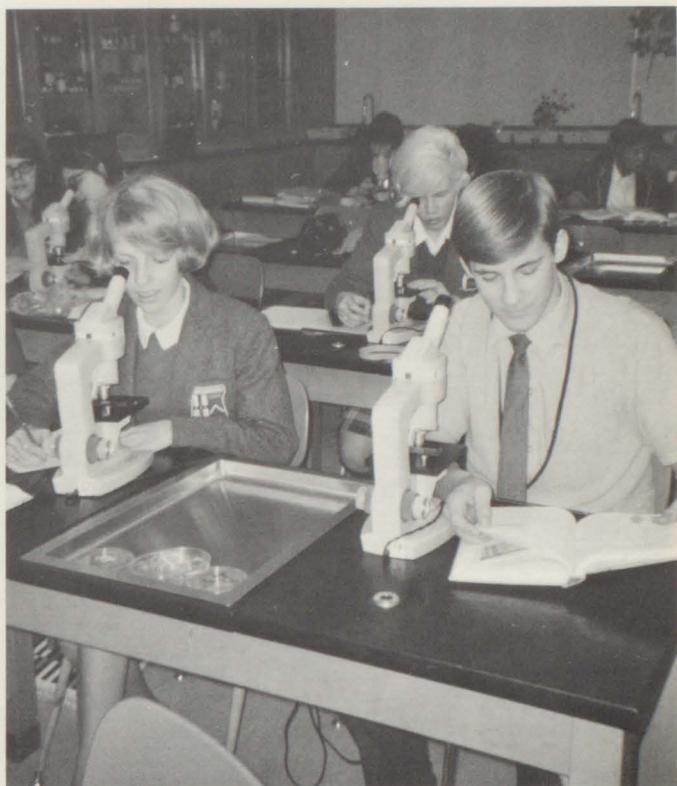

Physics class puts theories to work as they create machines.

This group put together a machine for measuring wind and water effects on surrounding territory.

in Scientific Knowledge and Experiment

Theresa Catanzaro and Dennis Losinski peer into microscopes.

Dan Shamly, Ed Losinski, and Bill Rauth are careful to follow correct procedures in their Chemistry experiments.

Mathematics Still a Favorite Subject for Many Students

Freshmen learn the rudiments and intricacies of Algebra in Math I

Juniors advance in Algebraic knowledge and reasoning, a help in all their thinking.

Value As a Training in Logical Thinking Is Unsurpassed

Just approaching Geometry class seems delightful to these Sophomore girls.

lems with a group of friends.

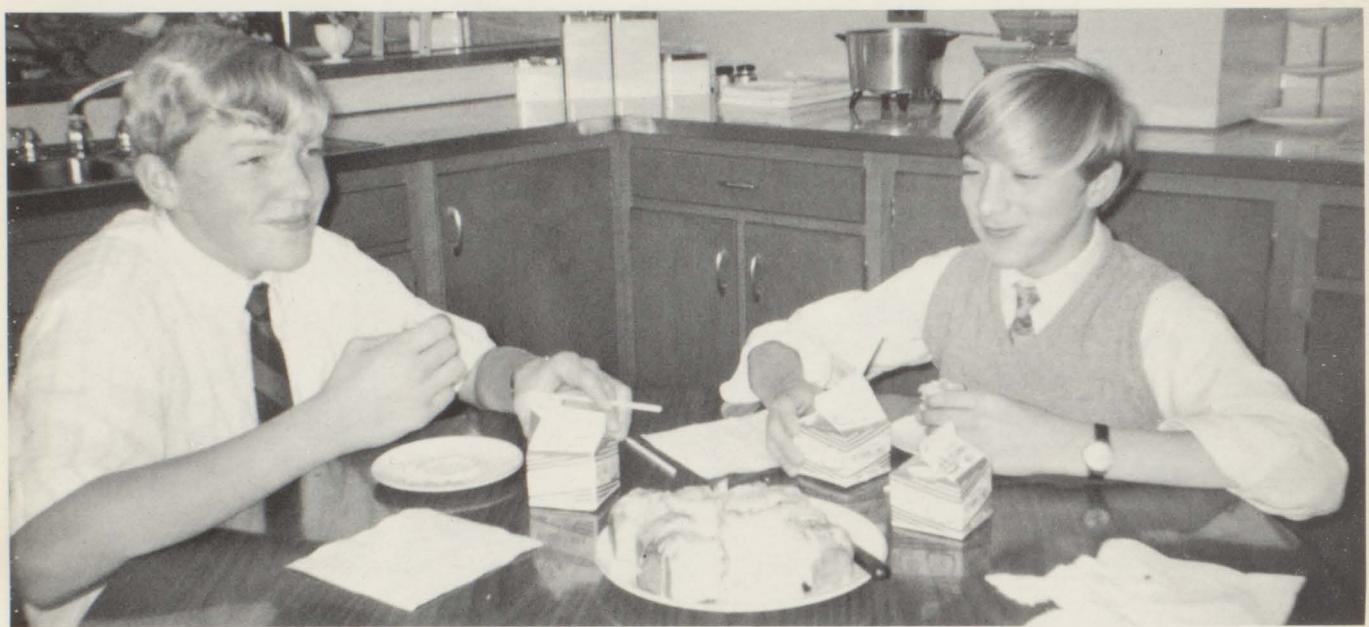

By the time one is a dignified Senior Math student, one can afford to sit on the floor and study the laws of chance.

General Math doesn't seem such a laughing matter.

Study of Food and Nutrition Appeals to Both Sexes

The best part of cooking is in the eatin as Neil and Ken plainly illustrate. That coffee cake looks light and deicious.

Mark watches and waits as Sue frosts the cake before serving.

After the cooking and eating comes the clean-up, fun with plenty of help.

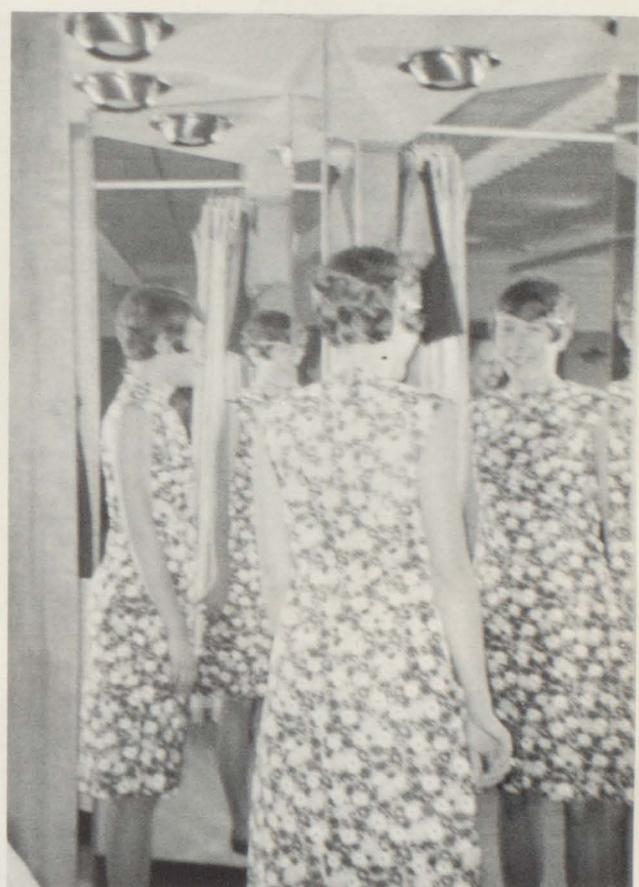

Sometimes foods class involves bookwork, learning nutritional rules.

Clothing, Knitting, and Family Living Still All-Girl Subjects

Nora Ryan and Linda Dean sew a pretty seam at the machines.

Barb Cain is multiplied in the mirror as she turns a hem.

Cindy Nalepa, JoAnn Steinborn and Sue Kotsko knit and purl.

Freshmen girls stuff toys for Christmas presents.

Business Department Is Interested in Practical Training

Constant practice improves shorthand and Sr. Rose Marie's class spend their time perfecting their craft.

Bookkeeping occupies these busy students.

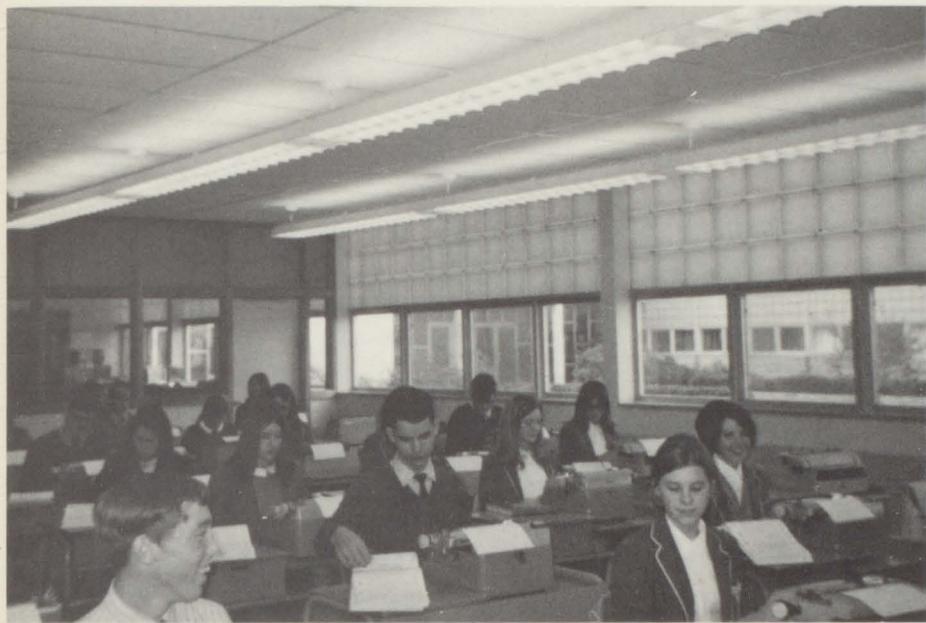

A field trip to watch how it is done in actual practice.

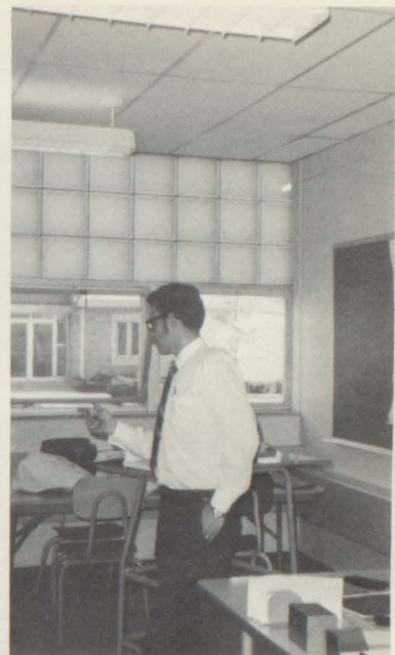

Many students find the information gained in Consumer Economics of lasting value.

but Care and Accuracy Are Side Effects

Sometimes typing exercises are fun, like Ronnie's deer.

While Mr. Herzer eyes his stop watch the Typing class aims for accuracy as well as speed in doing their exercise.

Not an apple, but a cake for the teacher, in the shape of a typewriter.

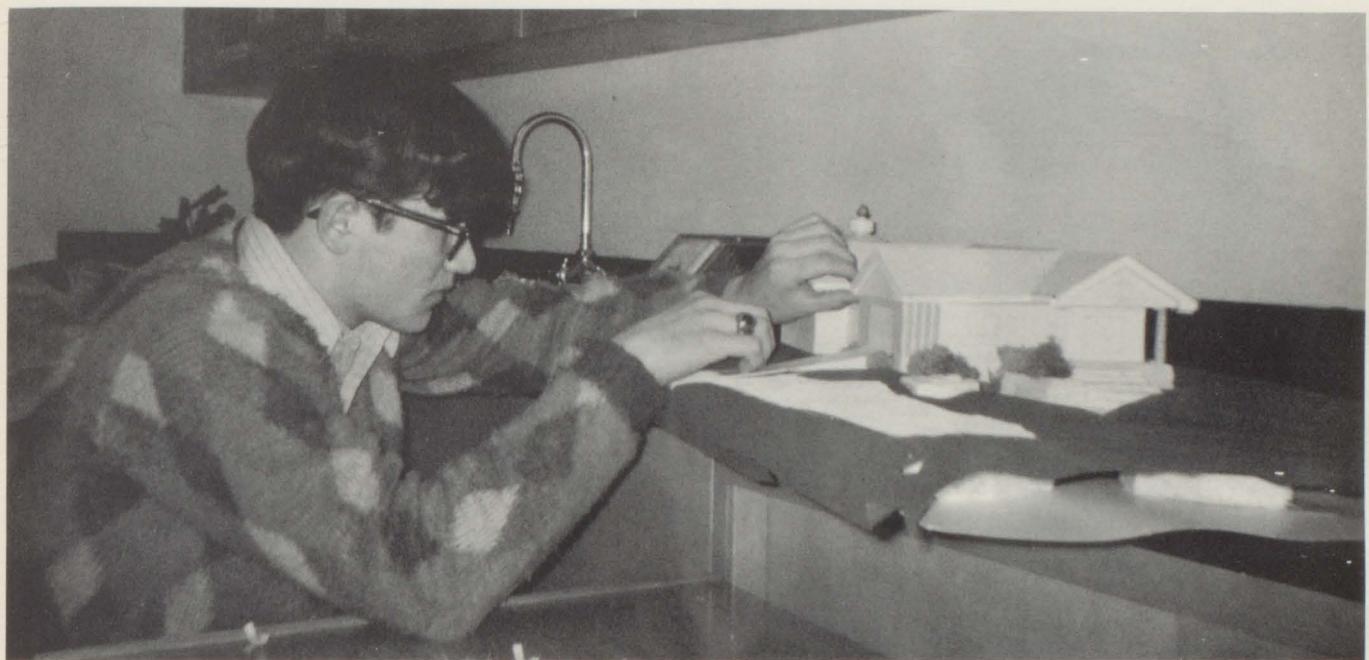

Business Math will help these students to step into jobs in the community.

The Library—a Quiet Place for Reading or Research

The library is supposed to be the heart of any school and ours is. Literally it is the center of the upper tract, and figuratively it supplies nourishment for learning and for leisure. A warm and busy room, constantly active.

Many and Varied Are the Things

Ted Kearns uses the dictaphone.

Foreign language classes find that earphones and tapes are a great help in learning.

The record player is almost as ordinary as a chalk board.

Books, equipment, and supplies used by those involved in education are valuable, but of greater importance is the way they are used by the people involved.

Humans matter more than the things they use, and our machines must not be used to make education more impersonal, but less so. In this day of technical progress, it behooves a seat of education to develop in students a Christian attitude toward their technical aids.

The Music department uses a tape recorder a great deal.

Used by PHC Students in Their Quest for Learning

Bills and receipts are necessary evils to learning.

Reading machines can help speed, comprehension, vocabulary, spelling.

One semester's supply of books for one Junior.

Even the modest whistle is essential equipment.

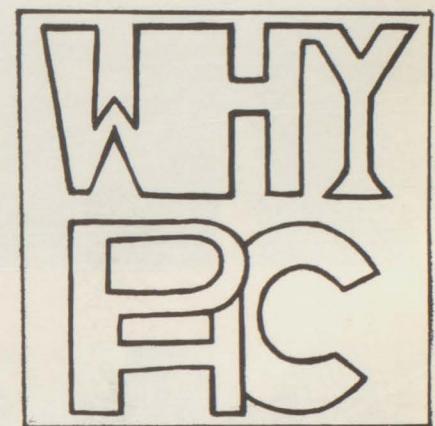

Where would the Foods class be without lowly pots and pans?

Microphones are used daily in many ways.

As they look back over four pleasant, happy years, the Seniors have many misgivings about leaving Port Huron Catholic. Remembering how much they treasured the bequests from the class ahead of them, the class of 1970 wish to leave to the younger Warriors gifts and tips to make their remaining years at P H C more efficacious.

As a class they leave their Spirit and their ability to get things done, in spite of confusion. They leave many laughs and a few sighs and tears. They leave decisions to be made about uniforms, haircuts, skirt lengths and other important factors. They leave a building in good repair, full of life, containing many memories to be shared by those aware of the things of the spirit.

As individuals they each leave a specific bequest to one of their underclass friends. These are listed as follow:

DIANE ARTMAN leaves her sister Karen one year without her shadow

NANCY BACHLER wills Rita Collins her ability to sit always on the losing side in Government class

JOE AHLES wills the name of "Father Dougherty's Pet" to Steve Cook

CARL ALBERT wills to Carol Albert his underlined Government book for an easy, assured passage of the course

KATHY ALEXIS wills Rita Collins her typing book and Sister Rose Marie's class three times a day

MIKE ALLEN leaves his curly hair to Mark Russell

JOHN ANDERSON wants Franz Gerlach to inherit his innocent expression

Acknowledgements

The Heritage staff wish to acknowledge The Time Herald for permission to use the action shots of football and basketball games.

We also extend thanks to Askar-Shain Photographers for the excellent group photographs as well as the individual senior pictures.

We want to thank the teachers, students, and administration for their patience with our interruptions. We hope you will find this volume of the Heritage a reward for any inconvenience we may have caused.

Thanks is also due to the members of the auxilliary staff, home room representatives, proof-readers, errand runners, and all the students who gave a little or a lot to help us with this book.

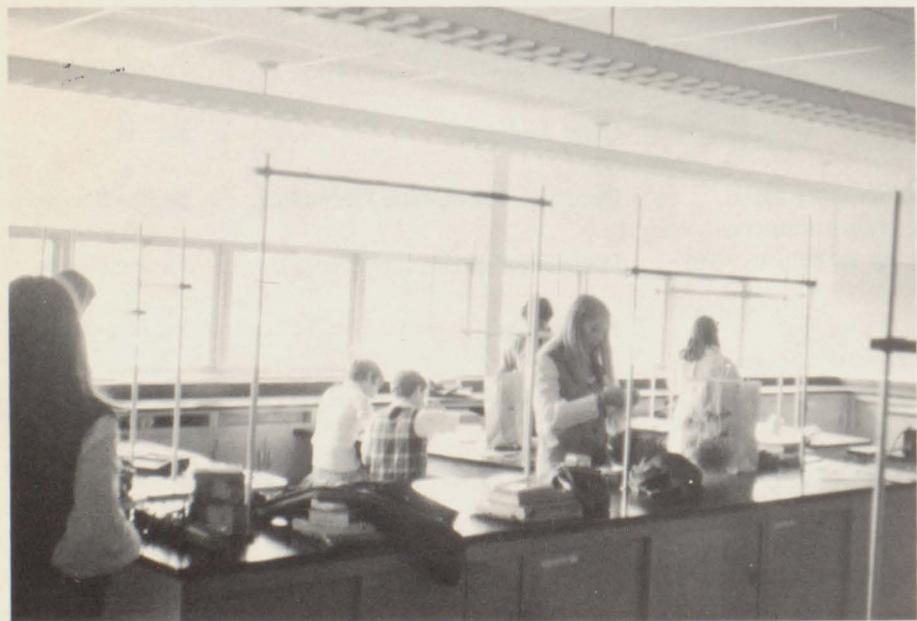

All those who loaned us pictures for this volume also receive our gratitude.

In fact, the Heritage, like many other undertakings at PHC is truly a group effort and perhaps that is why so many students desire to own one of their own. May you enjoy this record of your year at PHC.
